SERMONS by HENRY F. MILANS, O.F.

Without Texts

JESUS IS EASY TO KNOW

If your mind is as simple as mine about the things of God, you will have to cut your way through a jungle of involved interpretations nowadays before you can stand face to face with the central Figure of your spiritual life—Jesus Christ, our Saviour. Sometimes He is dressed in such queer garb, and the way leading to Him is so round about, that I scarcely recognize either.

When a preacher once asked me to write something about what Jesus means to me, I discarded all opinions on the subject and looked into my own heart for inspiration.

This is one subject in which the summation belongs in the first sentence: "Jesus is everything to me."

*He is my all;
There's nothing between.*

Sometimes I've wished I could have had a superior education. But, then, I've thought that it must be a miserable nuisance to carry around a mind that just can't be in agreement with anything anyone else thinks about anything.

I'm quite sure that there are many questions I'm not going to know the answers to this side of Heaven.

But that really isn't bothering me any, since I have Christ's word for it that I will be where He is. That is enough for me.

JESUS has never been a puzzle to me. I have always been able to feel on very intimate terms with frightfully hungry for bread and jam, just as I did. So it has never seemed so hard to know Jesus well, if the theologians and philosophers and interpreters don't get me all mixed up about Him, and spoil my conception of Him.

Why, everybody knows Jesus—how He died for love of us. Even the outcasts down in the slums know Him. You ought to hear them, as I did, sing:

*Can we find a Friend so faithful,
Who will all our sorrows share?
Jesus knows our every weakness;
Take it to the Lord in prayer.*

They know He loves them; that He used to go among the outcasts centuries ago to forgive their sins and heal them. And all these men know that He would do this now if they only would let Him. He's always asking us sinners to let Him save us and keep us. So, I've thought it is just natural for everybody to feel that we can know Jesus very well—and love Him—for we can understand Him and He understands us. We can be very sure of that.

It is Jesus who speaks to me and cautions me and tries to keep me from stumbling. For Jesus has seen so many of us stumble and fall; even His disciples; they fell—and that hurt Him terribly!

Yes; I think I know Jesus better than I know anyone else in Heaven. Jesus knows me so well—and all my weaknesses and failings. "Come unto Me, and I will give you rest," talk to Jesus, even if they can't understand all about the Trinity, the involved creeds and doctrines, and such things.

AND so, after I have gone along with Him so many years—more than thirty of them—and can still turn back and recall how He said:

*"Thy sins are forgiven thee;
Thou art Mine,"*

at a time when everyone else loathed me, I can truthfully say:

*"Jesus is all the world to me,
My life, my joy, my all."*

I don't know just what I would do without Him now. I'd be terribly lonesome for Him, I know.

It was dear old Jerry McAuley, a converted thief, who said, as he was dying:

"If they only knew Him Everybody would love Jesus."

And he was right, bless his memory!

Why Doubt?

WHEREFORE, didst thou doubt?
How is it, child, thou canst
not fully trust Me?

Why hast thou left the shelter of
My side?

The way is dark, I know; thick
clouds oppress thee;
But still My arms of love are open wide.

Each step is right, though dim, mysterious shadows

THE Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

James 5:11

Appear just now to compass all the land.

But I can pierce their gloom, and
I am not caring;

Doubt not My love, but take My offered hand.

How many resolutions to help the heathen have you drowned in your cup of pleasure?

DAILY DEVOTIONS

Helpful Thoughts for Everyone

SUNDAY: The Lord is in this place;
and I knew it not.—Gen. 28:16.

Trees, gardens in early spring, appear lifeless, yet could we see under forbidding bark and earth, there is there as much agitation as on a busy city street, proof of which is soon forthcoming. Can we not, then, discover beneath outer coldness and hardness of many hearts, a surging longing for the things of
God.

*Down in the human heart,
crushed by the tempter,
Feelings lie buried that grace
can restore;
Touched by a loving hand,
Wakened by kindness,
Chords that were broken will vibrate once more.*

MONDAY: Stand against the wiles of the devil.—Ephes. 6:11.

There never can be a peace treaty made with evil; it is impossible for that in which there is no spark of truth or goodness to be anything but belligerent.

*With holy might the foe we'll smite,
The monster sin to slay;
For God we'll fight, we know
we're right,
We'll never, never run away.*

TUESDAY: Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you!—Luke 6:26.

The desire to win popular approval is natural, and not unhealthy unless it gets out of bounds. Then, when principle is sacrificed, it becomes a dangerous thing. "I will do right though the sky falls" must be the Christian's strong slogan.

*Hearts that know their duty clearly,
Hearts to dare and do the right.*

WEDNESDAY: I will arise and go to my father.—Luke 15:18.

Any who have suffered from homesickness know what desperation it engenders. There is such a thing as spiritual homesickness.
That is why men can never find happiness in sin—it takes them too far away from home.

*Home, home, sweet home;
There's no Friend like Jesus,
There's no place like home.*

THURSDAY: I am with you alway.
Matt. 28:20.

Of course such a promise is directed to those who desire His companionship. Quite obviously there can be no friendship without mutual understanding which begins when the soul is born into the household of God.

*How wonderful it is to walk with
God
Along the road that holy men have trod.*

FRIDAY: His name shall be in their foreheads.—Rev. 22:4.

An eminent photographer's work is much admired chiefly for its true portrayal of character (or lack of it). What we are etches facial expression. "As he thinketh in his heart, so he is." (Proverbs 23:7.)

*Thee may we love alone,
And ever in our lives express
The image of Thine own.*

SATURDAY: Receive you one another.
Romans 15:7.

There is always wide scope for forbearance in any congregation.
Brotherly love must be the oil in which bearings move, or friction will generate sparks of envy, malice and other disastrous evils.

*Fixed in one Head; let Thy pure
Grace
Our loving circle still embrace.*

AN UNFORGETTABLE TEXT

A SMALL Indian girl stood patiently on the station platform, surrounded by a group of restless travellers, glad to witness any scene which would break the monotony. They were examining her wares. On every side the desert stretched away, meeting the bare, black mountains, their sides scurried by gorges and barren of vegetation.

"You pay two prices for what you buy here," said a perky man with his hat skewed on one side, "but the tourist is robbed everywhere. You might as well make up your mind to be cheated in the first place."

"This is not cheat," the Indian girl protested. "I make these baskets myself, and they take many days."

"Oh, of course, they all declare they are selling at a cheap price," said the man, "and why shouldn't they cheat if they can? I'd do the same in their places."

The Indian girl looked into the man's face and made a remark that was totally unexpected.

"For what shall it profit a man," she said in slow English, "if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? That is what they taught me at the Christian school, and I will not lie that I may sell my baskets, even though I go hungry."

It was a silent company that climbed aboard the train at the conductor's signal.

"It was not long for a sermon," said the man with the tilted hat, "but it's the kind of one you can't forget in a hurry."

Him. It's so easy to talk with Him, for He knows so many things I know all about. He used to be a man, just as I am. He had some mighty temptations, too; learned a trade and worked at it for a living, just as I did; shoved a jack-plane and handled a saw and a hammer, just as I do now, sometimes, and used to do in my father's carpenter shop when I was a boy; chopped wood for the kitchen fire; rolled around in the shavings, maybe, when He was a little fellow; played hop-skip and romped and shouted; tore His clothes, stubbed His toes, went fishing, waded in the brook; and got

He said two thousand years ago, and everybody knows it is He who says the same thing to-day; says it to the poor and the vile, the drunkard and the thief, and the woman who has gone wrong.

I guess everybody knows how to

A GLIMPSE OF THE KINGDOM

Canadian Missionary, While in Australia Speaks of Army Work in China

“AN unexpected glimpse of the Kingdom of Heaven,” was the ejaculation of one who was present at the mid-day Knee-drill, held at Territorial Headquarters, Melbourne, recently, Colonel Grattan presiding, and it was aptly put, since we had been privileged to see a sower of the mustard-seed, which, planted in the good earth of West China, and already producing fruitfully, gives promise of tremendous harvesting for the blessing of mankind and the glory of God.

Out of the unknown, but all-vibrant void, unannounced, and away again with war-time anonymity, came and went Major Clinton Eacott, from Chungking. And, for an abbreviated half-hour, which was so packed with soulful sensation that it might have made worthwhile a Congress, the Officers and employees glowed in his radiance of spirit.

He was under obligation to refrain from disclosing the way in which he had come, or whither he was going, save that he was en route for Canada, his homeland, to which he was proceeding for long-deferred furlough; but he suffered no inhibition when it came to telling of that grain of mustard-seed; his joy was tenderly precious to behold—one became so surcharged with the amazing wonder of it that 'twere difficult to contain such potent “new wine” in the “old bottles” so often carrying commonplaces, God forgive us!

Cherished Background

That Knee-drill reminded this cosmopolitan Canadian of similar mid-day gatherings which he had shared for long at The Army Headquarters in Peking; they constituted a highly-cherished background against which Major and Mrs. Wells and he and his wife helpfully considered their utter isolation when they had been despatched to West China to prepare the land for the Husbandry of Heaven. They knew that from the Peking prayer-pool they were refreshed, and the precious seed was watered daily. Just those four Salvationists, until Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. Wm. Darby could arrive to command the “forces”; but, even so, they could not stay together for mutual support. Major and Mrs. Wells went on to Chengtu.

No people of their own, amongst the millions at hand, whom they claimed for God; no helpers in the flesh, but the Holy Spirit and all the hosts of Heaven, countless for multitude—just themselves seemingly, “starting from the ground up,” and so, for two years and more, they have toiled; but how gladly and how gloriously has the Lord helped them! If only we could have reproduced the photographs he carried!

On his arrival from Australia, Lieut.-Colonel Darby, seeing the feather-weight spirituelle condition of Major Eacott, insisted upon his taking Homeland furlough, and the arrival of two young couples of Chinese Officers, who had found their way to Chungking from Hong Kong, made it easier for the Eacotts to prepare for their departure. Who told those four young Lieutenants, two of them already married at the Kowloon Corps, and the other couple after they had got away from Hong Kong, to make such a journey, during which they suffered all manner of misfortune by shipwreck, invaders and bandits, so that the brides arrived without their rings, and they possessed little more than that in which they stood? Ah, who knew of Major Eacott's necessity? But they were radiantly happy and an especial delight to their new Territorial Leader, under whose guidance they had been trained for Offi-

At Any Cost

WHERE would'st that I should glean to-day,
Oh, Saviour? Thou alone
Canst see the urgent need of souls,
And I am not my own:
Bought with a price, Thy precious BLOOD,
To Thee I owe my all;
Oh, Christ, Redeemer, Saviour,
Friend,
I'll answer to Thy call.

For who am I to hold apart
From Thy dear guiding hand?
Oh, teach me now to do Thy will,
I can no longer stand.
But “at Thy service, Lord, I bow,
A vessel Thou hast cleansed—
Oh, send me to some needy heart,
To one who needs a friend. . .

My day is open to Thee, Lord,
For still the Day of Grace
Extends its ever-loving arms,
So gladly I'll keep pace;
For in Thy service I rejoice,
But still—I am at naught
Except Thou guidest me each day—
By Thee I would be taught. . .

Dear Lord, Thy love hast set aflame
To better serve Thee now,
Where would'st that I should glean to-day?

Before Thy will I bow;
For should I choose my path to-day,
For Thee the day is lost,
But in the field Thou givest me,
I'll serve at any cost.

cership in South China, then free. “What plans have you?” the Major was asked, after the Melbourne Knee-drill. “To get back as quickly as may be possible,” was the reply.

Men everywhere look for a gracious outpouring of the Spirit of Christ, the one great hope of the world, and it may well come through the ancient gateway of China! Lord, send it soon!

The Grand Chorus of Triumph and Praise

BY MAJOR WILLIAM LEWIS (R)

GOD'S last word to man—the Book of Revelation—portrays the seventh and last vision in Heaven (recorded in Chapter 19). John, the writer, records that he heard a great voice

Lord." Which last four words are rendered in the Revised Version in the margin as "Hallelujah."

In the Bible this heavenly-sounding word is in connection with the most terrible judgments of God on the Day of the Lord, we shall keep on singing the "Hallelujah Chorus."

Hallelujah . . . Hallelujah . . .
Hallelujah . . . Hallelujah!
For the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth . . . Hallelujah!

The kingdom of this world is become the Kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ; and He shall reign for ever and ever. HALLELUJAH!

LEAVE IT WITH HIM

YES, leave it with Him,
The lilies all do,
And they grow—
They grow in the rain,
And they grow in the dew—
Yes, they grow:
They grow in the darkness, all hid in the night—
They grow in the sunshine, revealed by the light—
Still they grow.

Yes, leave it with Him,
'Tis more dear to His heart,
You will know,
Than the lilies that bloom,
Or the flowers that start
'Neath the snow:
Whatever you need, if you seek it
in prayer,
You can leave it with Him—for you are His care.

of much people in Heaven, saying, "Alleluia; Salvation and glory, and honor and power, unto the Lord our God."

Bible Hallelujahs

On four occasions the Hallelujah Chorus on this special occasion was repeated in Heaven by much people. In fact, the Revelation is the only Book in the New Testament in which the word "Hallelujah" is recorded. In four places it is written "Allelouia" in Greek and stands untranslated.

In the Old Testament "Hallelujah" is mentioned twenty-four times, and all of these in the Psalms, with the injunction, "Praise ye the Lord." It is first noted in Psalm 104:35: "Let the sinners be consumed out of the earth, and let the wicked be no more. Bless thou the Lord, O my soul. Praise ye the the earthly wicked forces of evil—enemies of Himself and His people. It is a shout of triumph and praise for the fulfilment of God's righteous judgment. Till the glorious day,

"Ponder The Path"

THE story of how a crudely lettered message, found on a sign in a muddy German minefield, came to coincide with an address given before the annual meeting of the Bible Society, in Montreal, recently came to light.

The tale (says a Dominion News Bureau dispatch) begins in the middle of a German minefield somewhere in Italy, some time before Christmas. A group of dirty, wise-cracking Canadian Sappers were gingerly marking a safe path across the treacherous terrain. At various danger points along the muddy trail they had erected hastily made wooden signs, warning those who would follow them of the sudden death lurking under the Italian muck.

They had just come to a particularly lethal spot, so thickly sown with land mines and booby traps that the slightest deviation from the "straight and narrow" might end in a flash and a roar. Anxious, the Sappers went into a huddle to cook up a warning sign appropriate to the gravity of the situation.

At the height of the discussion one of the soldiers produced a little black book from his battledress pocket, flipped the pages over and pointed a stubby finger. The others pressed around him to read.

A Freshly-painted Sign

Sometime afterwards a Canadian infantryman, trudging wearily and a bit carelessly through the minefield, came to a sudden stop. Staring him in the face was a wooden sign, freshly painted and bearing the words:

"Ponder the path of thy feet and let all thy ways be established. Turn not to the right hand nor to the left. Remove thy foot from evil. Proverbs, Chap. IV, verses 26 and 27."

The infantryman grinned, mopped his brow and trudged on, alert and wide awake again to the danger of a misstep.

The sign was the work of Sergeant-Major H. P. Chartres, Military Medal winner of the Sicilian campaign, but nobody will vouch that the Sergeant-Major found the verse himself. The story reached Canada

LOOK UP!

GOD invites every one of us to look up. John Bunyan's man with the muckrake could look no way but down, so he lost his crown. Said H. Hadley, of the Bowery Mission, New York: "The night I was converted I went out and looked up at the stars. I had not seen them for twelve years. A drunkard never looks up."

In this world where so many things keep us looking down, how grateful we are for something that causes us to look up!

Do You Know The Answer To These Questions?

By whom was each of the following spoken?

1. "It is expedient that one man should die for the people and that the whole nation perish not."
2. "What is truth?"
3. "Whosoever shall be chief among you let him be your servant."
4. "There is no God."
5. "God is no respecter of persons."

PRAYER IN A RAILWAY COACH

ONE of the innumerable soul-winning stories told in connection with the late Mrs. Colonel Coombs (R), was recently related by Lieut.-Colonel M. Junker. While travelling to an appointment Colonel and Mrs. Coombs, with their young daughter, Pearl, knelt down for family prayers in the railway coach.

Though the Salvationists were quite unaware of the fact at the time, a passenger observing the incident, was deeply convicted of his need of God, and on arrival at his destination, hunted up The Army Hall, attended the meeting (fortunately meetings were held every night), and was soundly converted.

STILL THE "BEST SELLER"

Despite an upset world—or it may be because of it—the Bible remains among the "best sellers," as evidenced by the report of the British and Foreign Bible Society in Canada and Newfoundland. Last year 450,309 copies were distributed.—The Globe and Mail, Toronto.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

1. Caiaphas (John 11:50).
2. Pilate's question to Jesus. It was probably asked cynically (John 18:38).
3. Jesus to His disciples (Matthew 20:27).
4. The fool (hath said in his heart . . .) (Psalms 14:1).
5. Peter to Cornelius, after his enlightening vision, in the home of Simon the tanner (Acts 10:34).

"Key Men and Women of the Canadian Territory"

"GLEN WOTTY," well-known for his aptly chosen quotations, inspired by the photograph of Territorial Executive Officers featured in the March 11 issue of The War Cry, has sent along the following Bible texts—one for each Officer. Incidentally, this esteemed correspondent—not a Salvationist—is a member of a famous Paternoster Row publishing-house family, and now resides in retirement in Toronto.

Commissioner B. Oramas: The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord; and he delighteth in his way (Psalm 36:23).

Colonel G. W. Peacock: I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus (Philippians 3:14).

Lieut.-Colonel H. G. Carter: To do good, and to communicate—forget not (Hebrews 13:16).

Mrs. Colonel F. Ham: Women are wiser than men, because they know less but understand more (James Stephens).

Mrs. Colonel J. Tyndall: Be ye therefore merciful; as your Father also is merciful (Luke 6:36).

Major G. Robson: I have loved thee with an everlasting love (Jeremiah 31:3).

Major A. Dixon: If God says I ought, He implies I can (Dr. A. T. Pierson).

Brigadier W. Putt: When thou goest, thy way shall be opened up before thee step by step (Proverbs 4:12, F.T.).

Brigadier T. H. Mundy: The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me (Psalm 138:8).

Brigadier A. Keith: He that believeth on Me—out of his inner being shall flow rivers of living water (John 7:38).

Lieut.-Colonel W. Oake: Thou makest the outgoing of the morning and evening to rejoice (Psalm 65:8).

Lieut.-Colonel W. Bunton: He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed (Proverbs 22:9).

Lieut.-Colonel Junker: In nothing be anxious (Phil. 4:6).

Lieut.-Colonel R. Hogard: He brought me forth also into a large place; He delivered me, because He delighted in me (Psalm 18:19).

Lieut.-Colonel F. Riches: There hath not failed one word of all His good promises (1 Kings 8:56).

Colonel J. Tyndall: If the clouds be full of rain, they empty themselves upon the earth (Ecc. 11:3).

Colonel F. C. Ham: Woman takes her being from man; man takes his well-being from woman (Thomas Adams).

Lieut.-Colonel G. Best: Rejoice in the Lord alway; and again I say rejoice (Phil. 4:4).

Lieut.-Colonel J. Merritt: I will give thee the treasures of darkness (Isaiah 4:5).

Brigadier R. J. Rimmer: Many men owe the grandeur of their lives to tremendous difficulties (C. H. Spurgeon).

Lieut.-Colonel L. Ursaki: Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet (Isaiah 58:1).

Lieut.-Colonel R. Spooner: Watch thou in all things . . . do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry (2 Tim. 4:5).

Lieut.-Colonel H. C. Tuttle: I have all and abound (Phil. 4:18).

Lieut.-Colonel W. Dray: I will cause the shower to come down in His season; there shall be showers of blessing (Ez. 34:26).

Brigadier E. Green: Lo, I am with you all the appointed days (Matt. 28:20).

Brigadier W. Carruthers: Have faith—you will find that it will be (Weymouth's translation) (Mark 11:24).

Lieut.-Colonel H. Ritchie: The glory of the Lord shall be thy reward (Isaiah 68:8).

Lieut.-Colonel H. Aldridge: He that hath pity upon the poor, lendeth to the Lord

Wealth Within

"So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God." Luke 12:21.
(Read Luke 12:16-21.)

MOFFATT'S translation gives us this version of our text: "So fares the man who lays up treasure for himself instead of gaining the riches of God." The New Testament gives us no encouragement in "gaining the riches of God," if our chief interest in life is laying up treasure for ourselves. We cannot be followers of the Christ and selfishly hold on to our treasures or money, for He teaches us that we must give up in order to get, give away in order to save, share in order to serve. We are to keep the least possible and to give God the utmost possible.

To have "wealth within" one must make constant and generous investments in kingdom building. John frankly tells us that we cannot have God's love dwelling within us if we shut up our compassion for those in need. (1 John 3:17.) Which shall it be—treasures for self, or riches in God?

The Appian Way, part of which Paul travelled on his journey to Rome, was sixteen feet wide, with two-foot curbs eighteen inches high, and had a pavement of solid stone and masonry from three to four and one-half feet thick.

A LINK IN A WORLD-WIDE CHAIN

Hostel Opening at Prince Rupert

“THE opening of this Hostel forges another link in the world-wide chain of Service Centres on behalf of Allied Forces,” declared Major J. Steele, Area Supervisor, British Columbia Command, at the recent opening of the new Prince Rupert Hostel.

Despite torrential rain, well-wishers gathered for the impressive ceremony, showing keen interest in Red Shield endeavors for the welfare and comfort of the troops stationed in this remote part of British Columbia.

Major J. Steele presided and introduced Colonel D. B. Martyn, Area Commandant, who officially declared the building open. Thanks were tendered those who had made the venture possible, particular mention being made of Major A. S. Parkes, local Auxiliary Officer, Captain Haig and men of the Royal Canadian Engineers, and Adjutant

HOSTEL FOR THE HUNDREDS

Tecumseh House Officially Opened Behind the Front Lines in Italy by the Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Forces

THE following cabled message from Major C. D. Wiseman, Senior Red Shield Auxiliary Officer Overseas, concerning the work in the Italian theatre has been received by the War Services Secretary, Lieut.-Colonel W. Dray:

General Crerar, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Forces, was present at the opening of the second Salvation Army Club near the front lines in Italy (Supervisor W. Snowden in charge). Free haircut, shoeshine, bath, tailoring facilities and canteen services in operation. Sleeping accommodation for one hundred men provided. This, and another Club called “Monastery Inn” (Supervisor P. Willison in charge), are meeting a real need. Word has been received of the safe arrival in Italy of Supervisors Batten, Bissett and Kitson.

A DESPATCH from Supervisor S. Macbeth gives a description of the hostel mentioned in the cable quoted above. Military authorities, states the Supervisor, requested that a hostel be put into operation by The Salvation Army for corps troops on leave, and it fell to Supervisor W. Snowden's lot to do the job. He started with a building that had formerly been occupied by Fascist lawyers, but which was thoroughly renovated and transformed.

Every 48 hours 100 service personnel arrive at the hostel on leave. Here they are provided with free board and room, and many of the amenities of more normal living.

An extract from a soldier's letter sketches life in Tecumseh House, as the Hostel is known. “Well, mom, at present I am on a 48-hour pass, and am having a quiet rest. They have a special leave Hostel for the troops, run by The Salvation Army—as you can see by the notepaper—and it is very good.

BATTLE-FRONT ADVERTISING

The interesting and humorous poster displayed here in facsimile was used to announce the presence near the front lines of Red Shield Auxiliary Services. The decorations were made by military censors

“I'll try to give you a description of what they do for us. We have a bed to sleep on. When you get up in the morning you have hot water for washing. Then you have breakfast—and cooking is pretty good. You then go for a free shave, haircut or shoeshine. When that is finished you can have your suit pressed and pants shortened (no charge), or any other tailoring you wish. Of course rent and meals are free. There is a swell lounge here and at present I am listening to a band. Yes, we can buy Canadian chocolate, gum, life-savers, razor blades. Everything is fixed up for our comfort, and I am certainly enjoying every moment.”

SERVICEMEN FIND CHRIST

Gracious Scenes During Cadets' Visit to Camp Borden

TWO meetings in the Northern Ontario Division were recently conducted by Lieut.-Colonel R. Hoggard, the Training College Staff and thirty-four Women Cadets.

The party first visited Orillia, where, during a Holiness meeting, Major Dixon, the Divisional Commander, and Major Matthews, the Corps Officer, expressed words of welcome. A spirit of conviction was evident and two persons sought Holiness.

In the evening Salvation meeting, conducted by the Commanding Officer, further blessings were experienced, and ten seekers were registered.

At Camp Borden the party spent most of the afternoon visiting patients in the Military Hospital. In the evening, a rousing open-air meeting was held outside the Red Shield Centre, hundreds of men eagerly listening to the message. A large crowd attended the Salvation meeting. Major Irwin led a testimony period, Adjutant Leshner conducted the Cadets in part singing, and the Training College Principal spoke in straightforward manner regarding Salvation. Immediately the invitation was given, seekers came forward until several rows of penitents were seeking the Saviour.

HAMILTON'S NEW EXTENSION

THE Canadian Army Trades School at Hamilton, Ont., now boasts of a Red Shield Service Centre that is second to none. The new extension was officially opened by the Commanding Officer, Colonel Benson, D.S.O., who after well-chosen words of appreciation of the work being done, handed the keys to the War Service Secretary, Lieut.-Colonel Wm. Dray, who made suitable reply.

The opening was graced by the presence of a number of prominent citizens, also present being the Divisional Commander, Lieut.-Colonel H. Ritchie, and city Officers.

Expressions of pleasure were voiced by the visitors. The new addition provides vastly more floor space. One wing is given over to reading and writing rooms with library facilities. A large room accommodates a number of ping-pong tables.

Facilities are also provided for free pressing and mending. Laundry and dry cleaning are handled for the troops.

Captain W. Ratcliffe is the Supervisor.

PART OF THE AREA!

“I AM afraid that at times your Organization has become so much a part of our area that we are apt to forget that it is a service which you are giving. Allow me to take this opportunity to thank The Salvation Army for the excellent work being done.”

—From a letter written by Brigadier O. M. Martin, Commandant of the Niagara Area to Supervisor (Major) C. Knaap, of the Red Shield War Services.

and Mrs. Brunson, Officers in charge of the Hostel.

Colonel Martyn referred to his own experience of The Salvation Army's ministrations during the last war.

Captain A. Rapson, acting Senior Padre for the Area, offered the dedicatory prayer. Captain Roy Foss, Royal Canadian Air Force; Colonel T. J. Weed, United States Army; and Commander Hudson, of the Royal Canadian Navy, spoke appropriately.

The Navy Band, by kind permission of Commander Charles M. Cree, was in attendance and played.

Following the ceremony, visitors inspected the premises. The new Hostel provides sleeping and feeding accommodation for 182 men. There is also a large lounge, writing room, sewing and pressing room in addition to a canteen and lunch room. An annex provides up-to-date recreational and entertainment facilities.

READERS WRITE

ON VARIED TOPICS

THEY CAME TO MARAH

By MRS. CAPTAIN JARRETT, Campbellford, Ont.

FEW weeks ago I felt led to write a letter to a mother who had suffered the loss of one of her fine sons overseas, and in addition to this sorrow had the burden of another dear one on her mind — wondering and waiting anxiously for news of his condition. To-day it seems I must write a letter to another friend who has received word that "he" is missing "over there."

Lately I have been reading the book of Exodus in my devotions, and how my soul has been blessed by the glorious truths contained therein! The delivery of the Children of Israel from Egypt, their safety from the destroying angel, the Red Sea experience, are all so typical of the way in which God has dealt with so many of us. Did not He, by His almighty power, bring us out from the bondage of sin? And under the precious Blood of our Saviour, have we not protection from the "death angel?"

God Made a Way

Then, as I read the story of the Red Sea, I remembered those first days of my Christian life; how Satan and all his hosts tried to force me back to my sinful ways, but God made a way of escape for me through the Blood of His dear Son.

But the truth that touched me most was the experience of God's people at Marah. For a number of days now, I have been reading it over again and again. The people did not expect anything like this; they thought that their journey was going to be smooth and easy, and they came to Marah. Almost immediately they began to murmur against Moses, saying "Give us to drink."

Some time ago I, too, reached Marah (and who of God's people does not?). After caring for a dear one for some years, I took her to a hospital where I knew she would have to remain for some months.

TRANSFORMATION

SPRINGTIME in the woods and fields — and Springtime in our hearts! We can't quite put our hands on it, but we can't help knowing it's there — that exquisite something — triumphant over death and glorying in new life awakening. Fresh green growing things springing up and transforming the earth — with the power of God behind them! Tender, loving, newborn thoughts rising within us that make others say, "I saw God in that man to-day." From underneath last year's withered leaves we found the first hepatica; hidden amongst the brush and bracken was the dainty lady's slipper — and from out a rude log cabin came the president of a nation! Needless pain and needless suffering, because we would not keep the faith! Oh, surely, nothing in this wide world is too great for us to undertake — with Love and the power of God behind us!

Paris, Ont. Elizabeth Anne Price.

Though I was assured of her recovery in answer to prayer, a question arose in my heart as to why God had allowed me to face this terrible blow. A few days elapsed and I found myself sitting by the bedside of another dear one as for the fourth time he went down to the very gates of death with pneumonia. No one but God knew the feelings of my heart as through the stillness of the night I listened to his delirious words and watched his white face. Truly, the waters were bitter! And then to receive word of a relative being seriously wounded overseas, and another very dear friend meeting an untimely death. It is true I had been saved for many years, but I was not prepared to meet this. I cried in anguish to God, "I have been punished enough!"

How I wish I had known the full meaning of Marah while passing through the trials I have just related. Those bitter waters were in the very path of God's leading and were intended to be "a lesson in trust." God was not punishing me; He was wanting to teach me many things, but I could not see it then. Though God has answered prayer, and both loved ones are well again, I must confess that the bitter waters did not become sweet.

It need not have been so. Moses cast the tree into the bitter waters and they became sweet to the children of Israel. The "tree" is a type of the Cross (Gal. 3:13) which became sweet to Jesus as the expression of the will of God. 'Tis true the experience of the Cross was bitter to Jesus as, kneeling in Gethsemane,

He said, "Let this cup pass from Me"; but it became sweet when He said, "Nevertheless, not My will, but Thine be done." And when He passed through "Marah," He prayed for His enemies and gave redemption to the dying thief at His side.

Bitter Waters

Paul encountered some very bitter waters as he sought to proclaim the Salvation of Christ. Listen to him as he tells about them: "Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as a fool) I am more; in labors more abundant, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, in deaths oft. Of the Jews five times I received forty stripes save one. Thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day I have been in the deep. In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by my own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren. In weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness."

Paul wrote thus to the Corinthians (2 Cor. 11:23-27) and in a later chapter he tells of a thorn in the flesh, and how he asked God to remove it, but still it remained. Paul, however, accepted this affliction as the will of God, believing that God intended it to keep him humble. In 2 Cor. 12:9, we read of Paul's glad acceptance of his Father's will, as he says: "Most gladly therefore will I rather glory

IS YOUR LIFE A TESTIMONY?

"Enoch Walked With God"

WHEN we come to the end of Life's journey, will those who know us best be able to say that we have walked with God? There could be nothing greater said of us. Not how much wealth we accumulate, or what success we may achieve, nor how famous we become. Nothing will matter then, only . . . "Did we walk with God?"

What peace and happiness and contentment we will find as we walk with Him from day to day along the Narrow Way! How our life will be enriched by that sweet communion and fellowship! What a foretaste of Heaven will be ours as we follow in His steps! And as we catch something of the gracious spirit of Christ, then our lives will be made a blessing to others and eternally worthwhile. They will show forth the goodness of God, and our example and influence will be such as will draw others to Him.

Many there are to-day who have never known God; who are living careless, indifferent lives; who never read the Bible. The only conception they have of Christ is just what they see in the daily lives of His followers. If they fail to see Christ in us, they may never come to know Him as their own personal Saviour.

What a responsibility is ours! How careful we should be to wield a good influence, and to give God first place in our lives; to be honest and true, genuine and sincere; in all our ways to acknowledge Him. If we do this, then our life will be a living testimony, and at evening time there shall be light.

SACRED PAGE

He Knows the Way

BEHOLD, I go forward, but He is not there; and backward, but I cannot perceive Him. On the left hand, where He doth work, but I cannot behold Him: He hideth Himself on the right hand, that I cannot see Him: but He knoweth the way that I take: when He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold. — Job 23:8-10

Love For Love

I BORE with thee long weary days and nights,
Thro' many pangs of heart,
thro' many tears;
I bore with thee, thy hardness,
sins, and slights,
For three and thirty years.
Who else had dared for thee
what I have dared?
I plunged to the depth most deep from bliss above;
I, not My flesh — I, not my spirit spared:
Give thou Me love for love.

in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me."

On the table in front of me is a picture of a darling little baby girl. There is a serious expression on her face, as if she seems to sense the great tragedy that has come into her young life. She is little Helen Priscilla Stam, whose father and mother gave their lives for Christ in China. I am thinking of her parents as they planned for the safety of that precious little bundle. They knew that they would never again be able to care for their own child, that in a few moments they would be in heaven. Together, they placed some necessary articles inside the child's sleeping bag, and after hiding little Helen, they went out to climb the hill to their "Calvary." In their farewell note to their friends they showed no self pity, but complete assurance that they were in God's will. Marah, yes; but it was sweet to them.

Heaven's Glory

Back on the prairies, in a simple country home, there lives a beautiful Christian woman with Heaven's glory written on her face. A few months ago she waved "good-bye" to her husband as he went out to spend a few happy hours with a friend on a lake. A squall came up, the boat overturned, and for a number of hours these Christian people clung to the boat, praying and singing as they waited to be rescued. The friend returned to tell the story of the "Promotion to Glory" of the saintly husband. This Christian woman tasted the waters of "Marah," but they were sweet waters, for she accepted it as entirely the will of God. As she looks at the small boy playing at her knee, she tells him that God is soon to send him another playmate. And I know that as she nears death's valley to bring another life into the world, there will be One beside her, and He will whisper, "I will not leave you comfortless, I will come unto you."

GIANT 'SNOWNUTS'

Old Man Winter's Caprice

OLD MAN WINTER was in playful mood the other day at Listowel, Ont., and fashioned a number of "snow doughnuts" which, though identical in shape, were of a size far beyond that of the largest Red Shield doughnut yet manufactured.

First, a heavy fall of wet snow fell over a layer of ice snow. Then came a capricious wind which formed the wet snow into little balls which grew to three feet in diameter as they rolled along. Then they became too heavy to roll farther and stuck. To finish the job a gale of wind blew holes through the centres—and there were the "snownuts."

PAPER HOSPITALS

Saving Lives With Salvage

A RECENT issue of The War Cry told of paper being used in the manufacture of planes. Now comes word that paper may be used for building hospitals. It sounds odd, but it is true, for war hospitals in Italy and North Africa have recently been built of a kind of board which is really old paper and cardboard repulped and strengthened with sawdust and fibre.

A hospital for 125 men can be built of five tons of this waste paper which has been made new, and the need of these emergency hospitals is so great that we ought all of us to do everything we can to increase the supply.

CYCLING FROM CAPE TO CAIRO

A Padre's Epic Journey

A PADRE recently cycled into Cairo, having ridden 4,000 miles from Durban whence he set out early in September. This enthusiast is the Rev. Charles Roach, the Anglican civil chaplain in Bagdad. The padre states that a miniature air-raid siren fixed to the crossbar of his cycle provided ample protection from herds of roving elephants, and as for lions, "the only one I saw I passed at a steady 13 m.p.h. without any trouble."

We may be sure that this historic ride through jungle, veldt, and desert was the most exciting of the padre's life.

A LIVING MONUMENT

Friendly Australasian Gesture

ON the steep side of Brindabella, a rugged mountain in the Federal territory of Australia, thirty miles from Canberra, a grove of native New Zealand trees will one day stand as a monument to the war-time co-operation of New Zealand and Australia.

The first two of forty-eight trees to be sent to Australia by the New Zealand Government were planted in October by the New Zealand High Commissioner in Australia, and the Australian Minister for the Interior.

MOST-MISSED FOODS

WHAT food do service personnel enjoy the most when they return to the homeland after front-line hardships? At Atlantic City, N.J., a census has been going on, and some interesting facts have been discovered.

Ice cream, it is found, takes second place to ordinary milk in popularity. Fresh milk is the most-missed food, states an authority, with fruit juices as a close favorite. Salads also are gobbled up when served on lettuce leaves, while corn and tomatoes disappear quickest among the vegetables.

LENS-LOOKS AT LIFE

Another Miner Milestone

APRIL 10 is a significant date to Salvationists—the birthday of the Founder, William Booth. It is also the birthday of an outstanding Canadian citizen, the famous naturalist, Jack Miner, O.B.E., who is seen, in the photograph reproduced above, at work in his bird sanctuary. Few men have done so much in the interests of wild life as this grand old man of Kingsville, Ontario, who, on the date mentioned, passed his seventy-ninth milestone.

TOLLING THE BELL IN STOKE GABRIEL

TO hold the same job in the same village for 500 years is a record of which any family might well be proud; it is a testimony to work well and faithfully done.

Five centuries ago (says The Children's Newspaper) a man called Narracott was appointed sexton of the Parish Church in the charming Devonshire village of Stoke Gabriel. Little can he have imagined that a long line of descendants, all bearing his name, would follow him in the same calling. But such was the case! The centuries have passed; life, and manners, and customs have altered in a thousand ways; but through all the changes, in war and in peace, a Narracott has quietly gone about his unchanging duties down Devon way.

The present "holder of the title" is Mr. George Narracott, and he is looking forward to ringing the Victory Bell just as one of his ancestors rang it after Queen Elizabeth's sailors had routed the Armada in 1588.

SPELLING TEST

Tripping the Cabinet Members

THE following sentence was once dictated by Lord Palmerston to eleven of his fellow Cabinet Ministers, not one of whom spelled it correctly:

It is disagreeable to witness the embarrassment of a harassed pedlar gauging the symmetry of a peeled potato.

The Coracle Builder Plies His Ancient Craft

JUST as their ancestors did 2,500 years ago, the people of the village of Cenarth, Carmarthenshire, Eng., use coracles for fishing. The man in the foreground is building a new one, of willow and hazel, covered with pitch and calico. The few men who have not been called to active service from this picturesque village fish hard from their coracles to net salmon and bolster the food supply. Some of them fish for nineteen hours a day.

GIANT X-RAYS IN INDUSTRY

Revealing Invisible Flaws and Aiding Security

TOWERING to the lofty ceiling of the National Research Council laboratories at Ottawa, a huge X-ray tube of six hundred thousand volts dwarfs the technician beside it (states Onward). The marvellous X-ray, which sees the invisible, is no longer confined to work in the medical and surgical sciences, where it still helps the doctor to save lives. For to-day, the X-ray has donned overalls and taken over another big war job in the foundries and factories of the United Nations.

The probing eye of the great new X-ray machines cuts through eight inches of the finest steel. It finds tiny flaws in armor plates of giant battleships, reveals minute cracks in the heart of vast welding jobs. In one exposure six entire castings for heavy bombing planes can be checked, while a short time ago six exposures were required for each one.

Working with their giant new cousins, smaller X-ray machines still see with five-thousand-volt eyes through aluminium sheeting, or measure stresses in magnesium and other metals by diffraction technique. Aeroplane parts pass on a moving belt through an automatic X-ray apparatus which takes up to five hundred pictures an hour. Portable X-ray laboratories in trucks or trailers take to the airfield and examine suspected parts of aircraft just landed, thus saving much time and making sure that it is safe for the plane to take to the air again.

Great has been the progress of X-ray since W. H. von Roentgen, in 1896, first discovered that certain rays were capable of passing through material opaque to ordinary light. Because he was far from being sure of their exact nature, he called the rays "X"—the symbol for the unknown. An alternative name is Roentgen ray, in honor of the discoverer, whose work becomes more important with each passing year.

BRITAIN'S BETTER BREAD

Wartime Whole Wheat Loaf

UP until fairly recently the British people have been getting a loaf of bread which contained besides wheat flour some oat, barley and rye flour.

It has now been announced that the oat and barley have been dropped and it is expected shortly that rye will be down to 2½ per cent, making Britons wartime bread really a whole wheat loaf.

THE PUFF ADDER

A Deadly Tropical Snake

THE deadly puff adder is a large and brilliantly-colored snake found in tropical and southern Africa.

When angry or alarmed it draws in air and puffs out its body, hence its name, the air then being allowed to escape with a sighing sound, an action which it repeats again and again.

The puff adder lies hidden in the sand, and, so virulent is the poison of its bite that even a horse will die from it in a few hours.

WEATHER CONTRAST

In contrast to most of Canada, which has had a very dry winter, the Transvaal in South Africa reports the worst floods in ten years. After a 17-inch rainfall in four days at Johannesburg a huge area was reported under water.

An Inspiring Weekly Message from The Army's International Leader

Provision By Prayer

FRIENDS have been asking me what is the "story" behind the following letter which the London Times was kind enough to print over my name a few days ago:

Sir,—You kindly permitted me to make known our need of a Nursing Home in which some of our infirm veteran Officers could spend a quiet and restful eventide. It is only fitting that I should say "Thank you," and also inform you that a gentleman, reading my request, has just handed me a cheque for several thousand pounds for the purchase of a property advertised in "The Times" of the same date as my letter.

Might I add a further word to say that I had requested a number of Christian friends to join me in prayer concerning the meeting of this need? I find it good to be reminded in these days of many uncertainties that God, our Heavenly Father, answers the sincere prayer of faith. Sometimes I fear that we Christian people are not sufficiently entering into our gracious heritage of faith and prayer.

The story, which I tell to my Salvation Army comrades and friends in order that they may rejoice with me over answered prayer, dates back to the time when Mrs. Carpenter and I grew deeply concerned over the welfare of some aged Retired Officers.

They had given their lives to The Army, and now, in old age and seriously failing health, were reduced to very difficult circumstances, greatly accentuated by the burdens imposed upon us all by the war.

Frequent reminders of the condition of these dear comrades came before us, and we prayed continually for guidance as to what to do.

In addition, I wrote to the Presidents of the Leagues of Retired Officers, asking them to join with us, and to ask their members to join with us, in prayer.

A few others whom we knew to be men and women of prayer were asked to share our intercessions on this matter.

An advertisement was published in the Times, stating our need and asking if any knew of suitable property which could be converted into a residential centre. Nothing suitable came into view from this, but we kept on praying.

Delays Have Their Place in God's Plan

A letter appeared in the Times, speaking of the difficult lot of gentlefolk in advancing years. One of our Retired Officers wrote me about this, suggesting that perhaps our particular need could be made known in the same way. I therefore prepared a letter. This was somewhat delayed by a variety of circumstances. I mention these details to show that "hold-ups" have their place in God's plans, providing we do not delay out of laziness, inability to make up our minds, neglect or inefficiency.

The Times, always magnanimous toward good causes, printed the letter submitted. A wealthy friend read it and found in the same issue a description of a property which he thought might suit us.

He knew our retired Chief of Staff (Commissioner A. G. Cunningham) and phoned him asking if the General had found the place he was seeking for his infirm Retired Officers.

"If not," said our friend, "I've been to see a property. If it will suit you, I'll buy it for The Army."

Within a few days—I was out of London when the offer was made—I had travelled to a lovely district and found that the suggested property would be ideal for our needs. It was due to be vacated in April, after use as a students' residence. The two and a half acres of grounds, the eighteen bedrooms of different sizes, the conservatory ready to be turned into a sun lounge and the other arrangements were "made for us."

We called at our friend's house on the way back to London and he handed me a cheque for a little more than the purchase price, stating that the owner had knocked £500 off when he knew the purpose for which the premises were to be used.

A considerable sum will need to be spent upon renovations and furnishings, but I am confident that, just as our prayers have been answered in the matter of securing the property, our essential needs will be further supplied.

I felt it incumbent upon me to tell the editor of the Times of the happy result of his publishing my letter, and am delighted to know that he felt my statement of belief in the efficacy of faith and prayer worthy of publication.

Problems Solved by Prayer

This is not the first time I have been led and helped in matters of property relating to Army service. In Australia, in Canada, and again in South America, problems of this kind were solved in a remarkable manner by prayer. We feel it our duty to witness to God's power to save our souls from sin. Why should we not give praise to God when He answers our prayers concerning the welfare of others and the work which He has committed to our care? We must! We must in greater measure!

My Salute to the Yellow, Red and Blue

An Open Letter to Salvationists from a Warm Army Friend

The following stirring open letter, addressed to Canadian Salvationists by a staunch Army friend, Flight-Lieutenant (Padre) Will Surman, R.C.A.F., whose church has been placed at The Army's disposal on many special occasions, and in many cities, will be read with deep and appreciative interest by Officers and comrades to whom the Padre is well known, as well as by many other readers:

My debt to The Salvation Army in Canada began thirty-three years ago in the city of Fort William when a young fellow fresh out from England. Home-sick and lonely, I was made welcome and introduced to the warmth and life of The Army by Lieut.-Colonel W. Oake, now of Winnipeg, but then the Officer in charge of the work at Fort William.

This Salvationist's kindness and consideration I can never forget, and I owe to his friendly welcome the treasures of the long line of friends in the work of The Army I have found all across the Dominion, from that day to this, and with whom in Citadels and homes, in open-air and indoor meetings, I have had such happy, helpful experiences.

The memory of it was brought to me again in Halifax, Nova Scotia, the other Sunday night, when I stepped out of the "coldest day of the winter" into the warmth and comfort of the No. 1 Citadel. The proceedings had commenced. I did not know who would be in charge, but no sooner had I entered, than I was greeted from the platform by the Officer leading the meeting—"Well, if it isn't my old friend!" It was Major Cooper, whom I had met with his good wife in Regina twenty-one years ago; and "before I knew where I was" I was taking part in another rousing Salvation Army meeting.

We sang:

"Amazing Love, how can it be,
That Thou, my God, shouldst die for me?"

and I felt myself "carried away" by all that it meant in my own experience. Oh, the power of song! How grateful we ought to be to those who have written such words, to enable us to express our feelings, and such tunes, to stir us with their melody. Oh, friends of The Army, my debt to you for your songs is manifold, and I am grateful to you for the many times when my own unmelodious voice has been permitted to mingle with your sweeter ones in the songs of God's boundless mercy; and of our aspirations to be better men and women than we are. Keep on singing! And your Bandsmen, keep on playing! There are multitudes who, like myself, owe more than they will ever be able to pay to the freedom of your songs.

Lonely Hearts Everywhere

Down here in the Maritimes, too, I was able to meet again such old friends as Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. Ursaki, and Major and Mrs. Martin, whose personalities and work had made such an imprint on my life in other parts of the Dominion, and picked up new friendships which I shall carry along life's way. Thank God for friendships forged in the hard testings of life, enduring all that life brings. Oh, my comrades of The Army, keep on being friendly to people. The world's heart is really very lonely. We all need a friend, and if we haven't got the Eternal Friend, who have we to help us along and to help us through? Be friends to all and win them to your best Friend!

No Distinctions in Heaven

It was my last Sunday night in Canada before going overseas again for the second time in the present war, carrying the memories of the years "over there" in the last war, and thankful to God for the way in which the "Yellow, Red and Blue" had been woven into my life, and the "Blood and Fire" had become the strength of my heart. It is true that I have never enlisted under the Banner behind and under which you so nobly serve, but just as really as you, I belong to The Army of the Lord and am a Soldier of the Christ. I, too, am really in The Salvation Army. We merely are different units serving under the same Great Commander on the same Battlefield. There will be no distinctions when "The Roll is Called Up Yonder." None of us will be Officers then, but we shall all be comrades. I am a padre in this war and have met many faithful soldiers. I am proud to serve in the Air Force, but also know that none of us can make a Happy Landing in the Land of Glory, unless we personally take our flight from the Runways of Calvary.

Songs of the Ransomed

In The Army meeting that Sunday night I heard men and women humbly yet thankfully tell again of the "place" and "time" when they knew the great change took place in their lives. I know when and where it happened, too, and, because I know this, my heartfelt and thankful greetings are here extended to all old friends of The Army across this wide Dominion. I thank God for every remembrance of you, and if it be my lot never to mingle my voice with yours on earth again, I hope to join you in the songs we shall sing when we meet together before the Great Captain of our Salvation.

Flight-Lieutenant Will Surman,
Padre, R.C.A.F.

LADY TWEEDSMUIR

Visits British South Coast Red Shield Centre

(An Overseas Dispatch)

ON a recent Monday afternoon Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of Canada's former Governor General, visited the Princess Alice Club, composed of British wives of Canadian soldiers. The members meet regularly in The Salvation Army Red Shield Centre in Brighton.

Lady Tweedsmuir talked quite informally to the members of the Club about her experiences in Canada. She stated that she had interests in Canada very similar to those of the women she was addressing, for she had two sons serving in the Canadian Army.

Distinguished Persons Present

The afternoon's activities were opened with prayer by Mrs. Adjutant G. Wagner, who in past months has rendered considerable and valuable service to the women of the Princess Alice Club. The Mayoress of Brighton and members of the Brighton City Council were present on this occasion, as well as many other distinguished people. All were high in praise of the work of the Princess Alice Club and the fine co-operation given by the Red Shield Centre.

OFFICIAL RECOGNITION

Given to Guelph Salvationists

IN connection with the recent Diamond Jubilee celebrations at Guelph, Ont., Major W. Gibson reports that the City Council has given official recognition to the work of Mrs. Dawson, who opened The Army's work in the city, and that of her husband, the late Envoy Chas. Dawson, who for many years was in charge of the work at the adjacent Reformatory. A resolution states:

"That this Council of the City of Guelph hereby places on record its appreciation of the many courtesies and friendly services performed by the late Envoy Chas. Dawson during his lifetime, and also the very helpful assistance given during the past sixty years by Mrs. Dawson, to The Salvation Army and other charitable and religious organizations, thereby making Guelph a finer place to live in."

11.—"And The Glory"

THE glory all belongs to God,
In Him we live and move,
And every good and perfect gift
Comes down from Heaven above.
Then why should any mortal boast,
And why should man be proud,
When all the blessings we receive
God's goodness has allowed?
Some men paint shining haloes 'round
The glory of their name,
When they arise to higher powers,
And do great deeds of fame.

WOMEN'S SOCIAL SERVICE CONFERENCE

Western Delegates Meet in City of Foothills

CALGARY, City of the Foothills, beautifully and centrally situated, was the place selected for the first conference of Women Social Service Workers in Western Canada under the leadership of the

From the first session to the last, the Conference was brimful of interest and practical deliberations. Devotional periods were held each session, and well-prepared papers on all phases of Women's Social Work, read by Brigadier P. Payton, Major N. Bunnett, Major I. Tindale, Major D. Barr, Major F. Sibbick, and Captain M. Webb. Memorandums on Public Relations and other matters were read by Lieut.-Colonel W. Oake, Major J. Philp, and Major L. Carswell. Mrs. Carswell soloed.

A luncheon meeting of the Calgary Advisory Board was also held, to which the delegates were invited. Advisory Board wives also attended, and the gathering gave them an opportunity to see just what their husbands were identified with; it also showed the delegates how an Army Advisory Board functions. There were between fifty and sixty persons present.

"We Will Not Be Found Wanting . . ."

THE War Services Secretary, Lieut.-Colonel W. Dray, has received the following cabled message from Major C. D. Wiseman, Senior Representative, Canadian Overseas Services:

Delegates met for conference at Sunbury Court send greetings to Commissioner Oramas, the War Services personnel, and all Canadian Salvationists. We will not be found wanting in the fateful days ahead. Lieut.-Commissioner and Mrs. Sladen, Mr. Hugh Redwood, President of the Goodwill League, and Major and Mrs. Evans, formerly of France, are visitors at the Conference.

Massey Hall, Toronto, Monday evening, May 29. Each seat is numbered and reserved, and prices are as follows: Balcony and front seats on ground floor, 50; other seats except gallery, 25; admission to gallery, 15c.

The Trade Department will release tickets on Monday, April 17, and from that date all orders will be handled in rotation. A heavy demand for tickets is anticipated.

Women's Social Secretary, Lieut.-Colonel Hilda Aldridge.

A welcome dinner gathering was held at the Paliser Hotel. Alderman Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, in the absence of Mayor Andrew Davison, representing the City of Calgary, was introduced by Major L. Carswell, of the Public Relations Department. It was appropriate that a woman with long experience in social work should be present to welcome the delegates, and later Brigadier R. Raymer delivered an address on "Things that count."

IN THE ARMY'S BIRTHPLACE

Following the annual Good Friday service in Massey Hall, Toronto, Commissioner B. Oramas is programmed to conduct Easter gatherings at London, Ont., birthplace of The Army in Canada. Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, president of the University of Western Ontario, is announced to preside on Sunday afternoon.

THE REASON WHY

By "GLEN-WOTTY"

A POET, describing the coming of April, has said, "A gush of bird-song, a patter of dew, a cloud, and a rainbow's waining, suddenly sunshine and perfect blue—an April day in the morning." April to me signifies another regular event, the coming of the Easter War Cry!

The special issue is before me as I write—and a fine number it is. The printing is excellent—good paper, and the illustrations are very good, including some in colors. A really wonderful story which all should read is entitled "Leaves for the Healing of Nations," the story of the development of The Army's medical work in India and how God mightily used Lieut.-Colonel Henry J. Andrews, V.C., M.B.E., I.M.E., the man who initiated the work. When I read this story I thought how very true it is, "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." I can only say that if you'll read this story it will give you the reason why the work of The Salvation Army is so greatly blessed—and fruitful.

Commissioner B. Oramas' article on "He is Risen," is, as usual, striking and good. He starts by telling of his visit to Westminster Abbey in London, England. I'm glad he mentioned this. In my opinion the Tomb of the Unknown Warrior is an awe-inspiring and wonderful memorial to our heroic dead. Then there are the words and music of that grand hymn, "Man of Sorrows, What a Name."

An interesting article by an unnamed author deals with the manufacture of stained glass windows. Gladstone Faraday's article on "He Saw His Mother's Face" is a good portrayal of a mother's love for her wayward son. General G. L. Carpenter's "The Secret of a Religion of Power" is written by one who himself knows the secret, otherwise religion with "a purpose and a punch," as he himself says.

Then once again we always look for a word from that good friend, Henry F. Milans. It is here, Arthur Hedley's story of the hymn, "There Were Ninety and Nine," is good. Space forbids any further mention of so many items, but I hope that the article by Colonel G. W. Peacock will not be overlooked. Yes, the Easter War Cry is an excellent number. Those responsible might well be proud.

The glory of their names and deeds
Will crumble and decay;
God's name in endless glory shines
Unto the perfect day.

If men would just remember God
In all their work and ways,
And render glory unto Him,
Who giveth all our days,
The pure white dove of peace would then
Each nation's flag adorn,
And Mothers' sons no more
Through war
From mothers' hearts be torn.

OUR R.S.W.A. members in Vancouver are still busy. Many may remember that the retired Officers have an Auxiliary among themselves, and have done some splendid work. The following note concerning this group will be of interest. From the Mount Pleasant Corps a request came for those in charge to give a program at the monthly meeting held in memory of the men and women now serving king and country. Mrs. Adjutant Hart had a long list of those gone from the Corps. This comrade keeps the "Remembrance Roll." Adjutant Denne read Psalm 104, particularly stressing the words, "Forget Not." Mrs. Major Stewart sang a solo; Lieut.-Colonel Goodwin contributed a reading under the title, "The Home That Prayer Built."

Brantford, Ont. We received a note from Mr. Warren telling us of the sudden passing of his wife. From Mr. Warren's letter I quote, "Mrs. Warren was active up to within a few days of her passing. She was seventy-four years of age and very much interested in the Red Shield. We are looking forward to the day when we shall meet again."

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to be able to quote from a letter received by Mrs. Sparks from our son, Donald, who is on duty at the Pacific Coast: "I wanted you to know how much I appreciated your excellent pairs of socks. The North Toronto Red Shield sent me two pair in the fine box of good things which came a few days ago. My socks were beginning to show some wear and were in need of repair, so you see that yours came along at the right time. We had a very good Christmas—I guess it was excellent under the circumstances. Surely would have liked to have been home in good old Toronto once more. Again, sincere thanks for your good work and thoughtfulness. You knitters never forget us, do you? Sincerely, Don Peacock."

Wychwood, Toronto. It was a particular pleasure to visit our comrades at the Wychwood Corps for the inaugural meeting of the "Book of Remembrance." An interesting program was arranged by the president, Mrs. Titmarsh. Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Spooner piloted the meeting. Mrs. Titmarsh read the names of those to be remembered. Mrs. Adjutant Houslander read extracts from letters received from the boys on active service. Major Dunkley read a Scripture portion, and Sister Mrs. Blake sang a solo. The Band gave splendid assistance. It will be remembered that this war-time ceremony was introduced by Mrs. General Carpenter and is a world-wide observance.

Adjutant and Mrs. Houslander and Mrs. Titmarsh are to be congratulated on their splendid arrangements for this gathering. I am sure that every mother and wife present appreciated the interest shown their loved ones. At the close of the meeting refreshments were daintily served.

We are always glad to hear from our Auxiliary workers serving with the forces overseas. Recently we had a very interesting letter from Supervisor Gordon Green. From it we find that he spent a very busy time bringing pleasure to hundreds of children who would have had very little to cheer them if it had not been for our Red Shield Supervisors and their helpers. The letter says in part: "We entertained no fewer than 500 children at four different parties, besides trying to do a little extra for the 1,200 men I was serving at that time. We had three parties in the neighborhood, and one about ten miles out in the country where one of our Supervisors looked after the school children last year, and this year, no Canadian troops being in the vicinity, they asked if I could do anything for the children. We put on a very good party for sixty-five of them.

"I must tell you about one of the parties we had. I contacted the two schools in the vicinity to find out how many children attended, and told them what I intended to do. After contacting the junior and senior Protestant school, I remembered the Separate school. The Sister in charge of the Convent asked

REMEMBER

The Salvation Army In Your Will!

WEARY and burdened souls in sore need of help are looking to The Salvation Army for relief, but the Organization, though eager and willing, is limited in its endeavor because of the lack of funds.

It is respectfully suggested that definite and immediate action be taken to remember The Salvation Army in your will; so that the good work that has met with your approval in life may continue when you are called to leave the world.

if I could do anything for the children there. We decided to make it a joint affair, with The Salvation Army as the sponsor. Six Officers, the night before, did a great job decorating with the material at hand. There were fifty-five youngsters present at the Convent party the following day, and they had a wonderful time. The Sisters enjoyed it as much as the children. The other parties we had were much larger, but we gave them much the same program and the same gifts. The other work goes on as usual, and I think in our own way we are really doing a great job for the boys, and they tell us from time to time what this service means to them.

"We think of you often and sometimes wish it were possible to drop in and see you all. I met the General and Mrs. Carpenter one Sunday at Brighton, and we spoke of Toronto and a number of the folk there."

Aurora, Ont. From some of our smallest Corps come some of the largest shipments of comforts for the servicemen and clothing for the bombed victims in Britain. We have just received a lovely lot of garments from Aurora—practically everything new. In addition to carefully-made garments, the packing has been given the best of attention. The soldiers' comforts were also in lovely condition—properly knit, joined and tagged. We do appreciate this, and thank the comrades for their continued faithfulness in their work.

We have recently received a letter from Mrs. Major Alderman of Grand Falls, Newfoundland, which speaks volumes of how the ditty bags and soldiers' comforts are appreciated in that armed fortress of the sea.

NO LADIES!

Snapshoted by Captain Foale, Douglas (I.O.M.)

The "lad from Lancashire" was being humorously cross-examined as to where he had been lately. "I know!" said one of the Red Shield staff. "You've been to the other place."

"Me go there! Not Likely!" was his reply. "Too many ladies to serve you!"

"We like that!" replied his questioner. "What are we?"

"You?" came the answer. "You're no ladies. You're reet mutherly!"

WAITING FOR HER TO "HOLLER"

By FLORENCE MILNER

"COME here, Mary." The teacher spoke gently.
No sign from Mary.
"Mary, come here!" the teacher repeated with slightly added force.
"Mary, didn't you hear me ask you to come here?" This time there was a note of authority in the tone.
The child dragged herself reluctantly from her seat. "I heard you the first time but I was waiting for you to holler," she said as she approached the teacher.

Mary is not the only child who waits for her teacher or parent to "holler." Many will try Mary's method if they see any chance of its working. The child summoned from play, surmising a request to run an errand, will turn a deaf ear as long as possible in order to gain an added minute or two at the game, one more chance to hide, one more time at bat. The boy, following the antics of Tom Sawyer or Huckleberry Finn, or the girl, down the rabbit hole with Alice in Wonderland, will try for an added page. The child feels that much energy has to be put forth in resisting authority that stands between him and his innocent desires, and he becomes positively uncanny in knowing just how far he can go with impunity, how long it will be before his elders "holler."

What is the remedy?
Do you suppose Mary would have waited so long before obeying if that teacher had not been in the habit of speaking more than once and with increasing intensity? She knew, perhaps unconsciously, that she could with perfect safety ignore the first summons; she could even disregard the second, all depending upon the signs of the times which she had learned to read. When the voice reached a certain emphasis Mary moved.

Now if the child had understood that when the teacher spoke in a natural tone, ready response was expected, she would have answered at the first summons.

"Dear me! I don't know what I shall do with that child. I tell her

In Such An Hour

SOMETIMES, when everything goes wrong;
When days are short, and nights are long;
When washday brings so dull a sky
That not a single thing will dry.
And when the kitchen chimney smokes,
And when there's naught so "queer" as folks!

When friends deplore my faded youth,
And when the baby cuts a tooth.
While John, the baby last but one,
Clings round my skirts till day is done;
When fat, good-tempered Jane is glum,
And butcher's man forgets to come.

Sometimes, I say, on days like these,
I get a sudden gleam of bliss.
"Not on some sunny day of ease
He'll come—but on a day like this!
And in the twinkling of an eye
These tiresome things will all go by!"

And 'tis a curious thing, but Jane
Is sure, just then, to smile again;
Or out the truant sun will peep,
And both the babies fall asleep.
The fire burns up with roar sublime,
And butcher's man is just in time.
And oh! my feeble faith grows strong
Sometimes, when everything goes wrong!

Life's Little Joys

MY joy is found in little things—
A bird's sleek wings, wee buds
Upon a hawthorn tree, the hovering bee, the crystal raindrop hanging on growing corn in April's morn,
a smile when meeting old-time friends, a job that mends; these richly treasured, of the heart of life are part, for love is found in little things, so my heart sings.

As If They Weren't!

TONY, a bright, handsome boy of twelve, delivers to our door fruit and vegetables. He is an intelligent little fellow. The other day he was very pleased to show me a snapshot of his two sisters. And isn't he proud of them! One sister, a very pretty girl, was married some months ago at the age of seventeen. Tony volunteered the information that she and her husband both go to work, and he added: "He is awful good to her. When they come home after work he helps her get the meal and wash the dishes—just as if they weren't married!"—Clonmel.

WHEN WOMEN GET DRUNK

.. (From the Midland Free Press Herald) ..

"THAT'S the bus my mummy takes when she goes to get drunk."

It was a wee six-year-old girlie who said those words to another little Midland girl on the street the other day.

Lovely picture, isn't it?

Those who introduced women's beverage rooms into Ontario have much to answer for.

It was bad enough when father went to the bar-room and came home the worse for liquor to abuse his wife and children, but now that mother has taken to getting drunk, God help the kiddies.

Jesus had something to say about those who stand between the children and the carefree happiness and well-being which is their natural right.

"Whosoever shall offend one of these little ones, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were cast into the sea."

"Offend" in this instance means "sin against."

Whatever may be said in favor of beverage rooms for men there is no defence that can be put up for women's beverage rooms that will offset the case against them.

Not only temperance "cranks" are opposed to them, but the great majority of men who drink. There undoubtedly are some males who like to be with women who are under the influence of liquor and with natural restraints cast aside. Decent men, however, prefer to think of their women-folk as something better than themselves, and they want to keep them that way. A drunken man can fall pretty low. A drunken woman is easy prey for those who would drag her to the deepest depths.

The recent vote in Collingwood indicated that the people of Ontario have had about enough. A vote of four to one against the introduction of beverage rooms into that town, which a short time before had voted in favor of a brewer's warehouse, is evidence that the people are alarmed by what they have seen in other places.

There are many hotel proprietors who would welcome an opportunity to get rid of women's beverage rooms. There was no public demand for them when they were foisted upon Ontario. The Premier could count on the backing of the great majority of the people were he to ask parliament to decree their abolition.

Hostel Residents Cheered

The Territorial Commander Visits Sherbourne Street Hostel

THE men in residence at the Sherbourne Street Hostel, Toronto, were genuinely pleased to receive a visit from Commissioner B. Orames on Sunday morning, March 26. The Commissioner, who conducted a meeting in the Reading Room of the Hostel, was accompanied by Captain J. Cox and Lieutenant E. McElhiney, whose vocal duets were enjoyed by the large audience present.

Introduced by Brigadier R. McBain, the Commissioner gave an informal, but keenly-interesting Salvation address, bringing into his message a variety of helpful thoughts and illustrative incidents. The Commissioner, incidentally, commended the men for their excellent congregational singing which occupied a goodly period of the meeting.

Giving support during the morning were Mrs. Brigadier McBain and Major A. Kennedy.

LISGAR'S THREE-SCORE YEARS

Joy-filled Diamond Jubilee Celebrations At Old Toronto Corps

THE prayers of the comrades and friends of Lisgar Street Corps, Toronto (Major and Mrs. C. M. Sim) were honored on a recent Sunday, when this old and well-known Corps celebrated its sixtieth anniversary.

Former Corps Officers, Major and Mrs. A. Dixon, were in charge throughout the day, and the Spirit of God came mightily upon the gatherings. In the morning Holiness meeting representative Soldiers of tion meeting, led by the visiting Officers, with the musical forces of the Corps assisting. The Major delivered a forceful message and the comrades had the joy of seeing several seekers claim forgiveness of sins.

Monday night the Divisional Commander presided at an anniversary program. In addition to the Corps Band and Songsters, visiting comrades of various city Corps took part. Anniversary messages were

The Major's timely talk to the afternoon Company meeting children was very much enjoyed. A goodly crowd gathered for the Salva-read by the Field Secretary, Colonel F. C. Ham, and an item of special interest was the reading of a poem in honor of the occasion written by one of the oldest Soldiers of the Corps, Brother Wm. Bell. At the close of the gathering refreshments were served in the Junior Hall, when the oldest Soldier of the Corps, Brother A. Stevens, cut the birthday cake.

MOMENTUM AT MEDICINE HAT

Conversions and Consecrations Crown Territorial Spiritual Special's Intensive Campaign

THE Territorial Spiritual Special and Mrs. Adjutant Ross have concluded a twelve-day campaign at Medicine Hat, Alta. (Adjutant and Mrs. Ivan Halsey). Much of God's blessing was felt in each meeting. Consecrations were made, backsliders restored, and sinners were saved.

One of the most outstanding gatherings was held in one of the city's largest churches, where a crowd of more than 750 people heard the Adjutant's thrilling message, "God in the Under-World." Mrs. Ross' soulful singing blessed the large audience.

Visits were made to the Young People's Company meeting, Youth Group, Girl Guides and Brownies, where interesting and helpful messages and object lessons were given. Mrs. Ross conducted a well-attended Women's meeting and gave an inspiring address.

Final gathering was a great Holiness meeting when several consecrations were made.

While in the city, Adjutant Ross was the speaker at the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, the businessmen who gathered being greatly impressed with the stirring and uplifting message.

Lieut.-Colonel M. Junker represented Territorial Headquarters, and Major G. Hartas, the Citadel Corps, of which Mrs. Coombs was a Soldier; Mrs. Brigadier J. H. Allan (R), stationed with the promoted warrior in Quebec City and elsewhere more than fifty years ago, represented the Retired Officers in paying tribute to a life remarkable for its soul-winning service in every province of the Dominion.

A hallowed atmosphere prevailed at the largely-attended service, and those who spoke or sang did so as if inspired, Major Jaynes referring in his tribute to the peace of God which marked the passing of the promoted warrior. Mrs. Coombs' favorite song and text, "On Christ the Solid Rock I stand," and "As thy days, so shall thy strength be," respectively, so typical of her unswerving confidence in God, were specially mentioned. Mrs. Major Dorin and members of the family are grateful for the many messages received since the promotion to Glory of Adjutant Ida Chalk.

Captain and Mrs. George Cox, of Brockville, Ont., have welcomed a son—Sterling Victor—to their home. Similarly blessed are Captain and Mrs. Robert Weddell, Sitka, Alaska, by the arrival of Edward Charles.

News has been received that the former Captain John Peacock, well-known to many Canadian Salvationists, was killed recently while on active service with the Royal Air Force.

sages, received from all parts of the continent, was read by Mrs. Brigadier Gosling (R). Songster Mrs. Janet Richards sang "Peace, the Gift of God's Love."

Major Hartas, in giving the Bible message, said: "The memory of Mrs. Coombs is enshrined in many hearts. She lighted the lamp of faith in countless lives—the light that will never go out."

In attendance at the service were a daughter, Mrs. Brigadier Putt; Mr. A. W. Mitchell (a son); Mr. John Madden (a brother), and two sisters, Miss Pearl Madden and Mrs. Wm. Lee.

A report of the memorial service, held in the No. 1 Citadel on the following Sunday evening, will appear in a later issue.

BERMUDA CHANGE

SALVATIONISTS in the Canadian Territory will learn with much interest that the General has agreed to the appointment of Major Ernest Falle as Divisional Commander of the Bermuda Division. The Major, who is in charge of the Red Shield Hostel, Vancouver, farewelled on Sunday, March 26.

Major Thomas Pollock, who has had the oversight of The Army's work in Bermuda during the past five years, with Mrs. Pollock, will be returning to Canada and after a short furlough, will take an appointment in the Dominion.

Salvationists will earnestly pray God's blessing to rest upon the change, to which further reference will be made in a later issue.

CAPITAL CITY CONQUESTS

Gracious Outpouring at Young People's Council Sessions Led by the Chief Secretary in Ottawa

DELEGATES attending Young People's Council sessions in Ottawa, Canada's Capital City, on Palm Sunday, 1944, shared a common experience with the crowds which thronged the capital city of far-off Judea on that first Palm Sunday so many centuries ago. They also saw Christ.

On the threshold of Passion Week, no theme could have been more appropriate than the consideration of the place in the life to be occupied by Jesus. That preeminent place was clearly defined by the Chief Secretary, Colonel G. W. Peacock, who led the hallowed and productive periods, and his words were attentively appreciated by the youthful audience, which represented all Corps in the Ottawa Valley.

The Council leader was capably supported throughout the week-end by the Divisional Commander and Mrs. G. Best; the Divisional Young People's Secretary and Mrs. Major Merrett; the Territorial Scout Organizer, Major P. Alder; and Captain Arnold Brown, all of whom participated in the various sessions.

Sessions were held in the Masonic Temple—within sight of the stately Parliament Buildings—and began on Sunday morning with a whole-hearted welcome to the visiting groups extended by the Divisional Commander. Thereafter, moments freighted with blessing, passed all too swiftly. Deep and sound truths were enunciated by the Chief Secretary as he launched his day's theme. The young people were enjoined to remember those appointments in and with life that would result in the building of spiritual character. Particularly stressed were one's responsibility to education, country and above all else, to God.

ESSENTIALS OF TRUE SUCCESS

The Commissioner Leads Trio of Interest-packed Council Sessions With Youth of the Toronto Division

HEARTY, whole-souled singing, "hat - stretching" addresses, moving Penitent-Form scenes marked the three sessions of the annual Young People's Councils of the Toronto Division, conducted by the Territorial Commander, Commissioner B. Oram, in the Masonic Temple on Sunday, April 2.

Delegates were present from most of the forty-three Corps in the Division. Throughout the day the Commissioner was supported by the Territorial Young People's Secretary and Mrs. Brigadier Keith, the Divisional Commander and Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Spooner, the Divisional Young People's Secretary and Mrs. Major Gage, and Major G. Bloss, Territorial Guide Organizer.

Music for the day was provided by an ensemble of youthful Bandsmen under the direction of Major R. Watt; Adjutant C. Everitt presided at the piano; Cadet B. Payton and Corps Cadets P. Quayle, Marjory and Dorothy Merritt contributed vocal and instrumental items.

Assigned to testify in the morning and evening sessions were Cadets Chamberlain and Payton; Corps Cadets Alderman and Dray and Cub Leader Leslie read selected Scripture passages; prayer was offered by Mrs. Major Gage, in the morning, Mrs. Captain Sloan in the afternoon and Young People's Sergeant-Major Potter in the evening.

In the first session, at the end of an hour's interesting program of songs, choruses and special items, the Commissioner opened his address with a glimpse into the future and the statement that in his opinion the present generation is on the edge of an era of progress and applied science such as the world has never known. Delving momentarily into post-war possibilities, he reiterated the oft-repeated truth that unless Christian principles are woven into the peace-plans, there can be no hope of permanent relief from blood-shed and world-upheaval.

Finally, having rung the changes on the tremendous declaration of all Christian faiths—"I believe in God"—and having added a word of personal reminiscence, the Commissioner terminated his address with prayer and the Benediction.

Variety, the spice of life, was introduced into the afternoon session when, under the Commissioner's

Barbara Rose (Peterboro), Corps Cadet Laurie Hart (Bowmanville), and L.A.C. McEwan (Earls Court)—hot on the trail of the leaders, also gave commendable addresses.

The Commissioner, in congratulating the young people upon their presentation of vital truths, observed that the world to-day is looking for facts—something real and of which it could be sure.

Brigadier Keith gave the concluding address, throwing out a vigorous challenge to his young listeners to aim for the highest and best in life.

The early part of the evening session included some exceptionally fine singing by the delegates, and prayer for the Empire, its leaders and the men and women of the armed forces, by Major H. Newman.

The Commissioner's message, built around that "greatest thing in the world"—Love—reflected a wide knowledge of the world of affairs, a broad view of life and the habit of careful thinking, qualities which strongly appealed to the youthful listeners in the audience. Very responsive, they were, to every change of mood and expression, and when the concluding prayer put a period to the stirring address, the prayer meeting found conviction resting upon many hearts, and youthful offenders being made restive by uneasy consciences which eventually goaded them to a definite decision on matters of spiritual development.

When, under the guidance of Lieut.-Colonel Spooner, such choruses as "I'm coming, dear Lord, to Thee," were wafted heavenward, the trek to the Altar began, and once again did tears of repentance sanctify the place of prayer and penitence.

happy leadership, a number of young delegates gave a convincing demonstration of talent. This included a euphonium solo by Cadet Payton, an instrumental quartet (East Toronto), and a sextet of extemporaneous speakers introduced by the Territorial Young People's Secretary.

The last-named item—a contest in which five-minute addresses, on a timely subject, were featured—provided the adjudicators with the proverbial headache, so excellently and so closely did each of the contestants run for honors. Guide Leader Anne Hayward (Rhodes Avenue), and Corps Cadet Jean Woolfrey (Dovercourt) tied for first place, with Candidate Edith McLean (Swansea) running second. All three received awards. Character-Building In British Columbia

FROM many points in British Columbia, enhanced on every hand by colorful evidences of Spring, came eager young people to share in the blessings of Council Sessions conducted by the Territorial Young People's Secretary, Brigadier A. Keith, in Vancouver, B.C.

Sessions were held in Victory Hall Auditorium, where the Divisional Commander welcomed the delegates. Heartily applauded were representatives of the new Outpost at Hammond, which sent five delegates.

The messages of the Council leader were forcefully presented, and to his youthful audience he spoke of the opportunities for, and the possibilities of, youth.

Thoughtful and instructive papers were presented by Corps Cadets Florence Mycock, of Mount Pleasant Corps, and Betty McKenzie, of the Citadel.

Particularly interesting was the speaker's contest during the afternoon session. Corps Cadets M. Bitcom, of Kitsilano, and Shirley Hill, of the Citadel, were winners.

Contributing to the effectiveness of the day were the soulful vocal solos, and the music of Grandview Young People's Band and Pianist Evelyn Hammond.

During the concluding moments of the day a great number of young people knelt at the Mercy-Seat.

Hundreds of Salvationists and friends witnessed one of the finest Demonstrations ever presented in Vancouver, in the spacious auditorium of Strathcona School, during the recent Young People's Council week-end.

The Divisional Commander, Lieut.-Colonel M. Junker, opened the gathering and presented the chairman, Brigadier A. Keith. A varied program concluded with a brilliant episode, "Forward to Victory." Brigadier Keith congratulated the Divisional Young People's Secretary and Mrs. Major Mercer who were responsible for the arrangements.

A speedy plane transported Brigadier Keith and Major Mercer from Vancouver to Victoria, where both Victoria Corps united for a memorable event.

The Territorial Young People's Secretary's counsel, drawn from a wealth of experience among young people, was earnestly received.

Corps Cadet Lydia Belobaba read an informative paper. Major Mercer assisted in the gathering.—H.B.

SERVANT OF GOD, WELL DONE!

BROTHER JOHN APPLETON Calgary Citadel, Alta.

Another veteran comrade of the Calgary Citadel Corps has answered the Home Call—Brother John Matthew Appleton, a Salvationist for more than sixty years.

At the age of fourteen John Appleton ran away to sea and travelled to almost every country in the world. Many and varied were his experiences, but the most outstanding was that which followed a great storm, for it was while the storm was at its height and men were perishing that this young man made a solemn vow to God that if his life were spared he would give it to Christ in the first place of worship he could find. That place was a Salvation Army tent in Bombay, and there he began a life filled with service for Jesus Christ and the Organization he came to love so well.

Returning to England, Brother Appleton became an Officer on the field, and many were the stories of early-day fighting he could recount. In later years he came with his family to Canada and settled in Lethbridge; then, following the death of his wife, he moved to Calgary.

Funeral services were conducted in Calgary by Major E.

G. Fitch and in Lethbridge by Adjutant Wm. Slous. At a memorial service held in the Calgary Citadel, Treasurer C. Chamberlain paid a tribute to the memory of the departed warrior, and Songster Edith Cadman sang "Saved by Grace."

SISTER MRS. COOPER Rhodes Avenue, Toronto

Sister Mrs. Jane Cooper, a Salvationist for over fifty years and an Officer for a short period, recently was promoted to Glory from the Rhodes Avenue Corps, after two years of inactivity.

The funeral service was conducted by the Corps Officers, Major Rumbold and Adjutant Barwick. Major M. Tucker, formerly stationed at the Corps, prayed.

In the memorial service on Sunday night a friend of long standing, Commandant Bury (R), brought the message, and Sergeant - Major Trunks and Sister Mrs. Rodgers spoke, while Sister Mrs. Marshall sang a favorite song.

BROTHER RAY WARD Huntsville, Ont.

Brother Ray Ward, a patient at the Gravenhurst Sanatorium, has been released from suffering and has gone to be with the Master he loved. Always ready to witness for the Lord, he is now enjoying the "peace that passeth understanding."

The funeral service, held in the Huntsville Citadel, was conducted by Adjutant Wood, Gravenhurst Corps Officer. Brother Ward is survived by his wife and little boy.

SISTER MRS. RICE Ann Arbor, Mich.

Sister Mrs. Mary Ellen Rice, wife of Envoy Walter Rice of Ann Arbor, Mich., recently was promoted to Glory at the age of seventy-one years after having been a Salvationist for fifty-six years.

Born in Montreal, Sister Rice, after moving to Toronto, soldiered at Danforth and the Temple Corps where, in each case, she held the position of Home League Treasurer.

The funeral service was conducted by Brigadier Carl Ellis of Port Huron, Mich.

BROTHER G. A. HUSSON Hazelton, B.C.

One of the early-day Salvationists of the Skeena River, Brother George A. Husson, recently passed to his Eternal Reward from Hazelton, B.C.

Brother Husson was converted at Port Essington, B.C., in 1902, and was a soldier of that Corps for several years. Later he moved up the river, and for some time lived several miles from Hazelton.

The funeral service, which was attended by many comrades and friends, was conducted in The Salvation Army Hall at Hazelton by Adjutant P. Gorrie and Captain F. Watson.

INTERESTING MEETINGS

Interesting meetings were conducted at the Leamington, Ont., Corps (Adjutant and Mrs. J. Cooper) by Major N. Buckley, Public Relations Officer for London and district. On Saturday evening a rousing open-air meeting in the business section was followed by an indoor prayer and praise meeting.

On Sunday morning the Major's message on Holiness was of an inspiring character. A grand time was experienced in the afternoon with the staff and inmates of the County Home.

On Sunday evening the Major's vocal solos, and the new choruses introduced, contributed to the success of the occasion, and three persons came to the Mercy-Seat, making a total of twenty-nine for the last six weeks. In the Company meeting Major Buckley enrolled one Junior Soldier.

ADDRESSES YOUNG PEOPLE

The Divisional Young People's Secretary, Major M. Little, was guest of honor at a dinner for young people's workers at Fort William, Ont.

At night the Major was the speaker at a united young people's meeting led by Mrs. Major Fleischer, wife of the Corps Officer, in the Fundamental Baptist Church.

The Major also took part in the Sunday morning Holiness and afternoon Company meetings. On the former occasion the Young People's Singing Company sang acceptably.

On Wednesday evening the Band and a local men's chorus gave a program in the auditorium of the Vocational School.

Eighteen persons knelt at the Cross in a week of revival meetings led by Major and Mrs. F. White (R) at Parry Sound, Ont. (Major and Mrs. F. Johnson). In the final meeting twenty-six persons rose in a body to testify.

NEWSLETS

The Field Secretary, Colonel F. Ham, visited Sudbury, Ont., where he spoke to members of the Lions Club, conducted an inspiring Remembrance service in the afternoon, and led a rousing public meeting at night, preceded by outdoor effort. Adjutant and Mrs. J. A. Wilder are the Corps Officers.

Collingwood, Ont., comrades profited by a visit from the Divisional Commander and Mrs. Major Dixon. All the meetings were well attended and a number of young people rededicated their lives to the service of Christ. Major Beaumont and Lieutenant Agar are the Corps Officers.

Seven persons rededicated their lives to the service of Christ in recent meetings conducted by the Corps Officers, Major and Mrs. E. Grant, at Sherbrooke, Que.

Week-end meetings conducted at Arnprior, Ont., Corps (Captain J. Collins, Lieutenant L. Rose) by the Divisional Young People's Secretary, Major F. Merrett, and Mrs. Merrett, were used of God in blessing the people.

Captain Collins was the speaker at a recent meeting of the Ministerial Association.

At Leamington, Ont. (Adjutant and Mrs. J. Cooper), the Holy Spirit is still continuing to bless the efforts of the Officers and comrades. On Sunday night, after a well-fought prayer meeting, one person came to Christ.

Of the two penitents who knelt at the Altar on a recent Sunday night at Windsor IV, one was an elderly man who never before had sought the Lord. Lieutenant E. McDonald, Corps Officer, says that he is doing well.

JAIL CONVERTS TESTIFY

Week-end meetings led by Envoy Laughlin at the Kentville, N.S., Corps resulted in three comrades rededicating their lives to the service of God.

In the afternoon jail meeting the Corps Officer, Adjutant M. McLeod, and the visitor of the day were encouraged by the evident sincerity with which recent converts testified, and by the conversion of a man who voluntarily acknowledged his need of Christ and expressed a desire to lead a better life.

In the night meeting the faith and prayers of Officers and comrades were rewarded when five persons claimed victory.

VISITATION RESULTS

Under the guidance of the Corps Officer, Captain R. Hollman, the Corps Cadets carried out a campaign of house-to-house visitation which resulted in the conversion of three young men. At the same time, three Corps Cadets rededicated themselves to the service of God, and six Bandmen renewed their vows at the Altar.

Mrs. Major Heatherington, of Kirkland Lake, was the speaker in meetings in which seven persons came to Christ. Major and Mrs. Matthews and their daughter, of Orillia, also led a Monday night meeting.

On one occasion Captain Hollman and the Corps Cadets were guests of Adjutant Wood and Lieutenant Terry at Gravenhurst.

MANY SEEKERS RECORDED

Charlottetown, P.E.I., comrades and Officers (Adjutant and Mrs. W. Mercer) have been much blessed through a twelve-day spiritual campaign which resulted in several persons seeking Christ. Among the penitents was a man who had not been attending a place of worship for some time, and his wife.

In addition to the regular meetings, visits were made to the Provincial Infirmary and Sanatorium, and morning devotions were broadcast each week-day. Since the close of the campaign there have been seekers in each Sunday night meeting.

AGGRESSIVE SALVATIONISM

It was a pleasure for the comrades of Montreal Citadel to have the Divisional Commander, Brigadier E. Green, stop off in the city on his way back to St. John and conduct a Sunday's meetings. The Brigadier was stationed at Montreal Citadel seventeen years ago, and his aggressive Salvationism is as robust as ever.

A special feature of the day's meeting was the singing of a chorus, "My youth shall sing the praises of my Lord." In the morning Holiness meeting an instructive address was given on the subject of "Stewardship," and in the night meeting there was one seeker at the Altar in a well-fought prayer meeting.

Envoys Weeden and Weaver have completed a successful campaign at Paris, Ont. (Captain M. Price). Seventeen young people came to Christ and the adopted son of Brother and Sister Welch was dedicated.

Point St. Charles' Fifty-Ninth Field Secretary Leads Anniversary Meetings

The Field Secretary, Colonel F. Ham, supported by the Divisional Commander, Lieut.-Colonel G. Best, and Mrs. Best, conducted fifty-ninth anniversary meetings at the Point St. Charles, Montreal, Corps (Major and Mrs. G. Kirbyson).

On Saturday night the Citadel Songster Brigade, directed by Songster Leader A. McMillan, gave an excellent program. On Sunday afternoon the Guides and Brownies were the subject of special remarks from the Colonel, and a number of

ASSISTANCE GIVEN CORPS

Captain and Mrs. Titecombe, of the War Services, led an interesting series of meetings at Regina Citadel (Captain and Mrs. Halsey). In the Sunday afternoon "Sunshine Hour" both the visitors contributed musical items, and at night a backslider sister came back to God.

The ministers of the city assisted in a week's meetings in which the Band and Songster Brigade took part. Those assisting were Rev. W. H. Brook, of the Alliance Church; Rev. A. C. Elliott, of North Side Presbyterian Church; Rev. H. Joyce, of St. Andrew's Church; Rev. N. D. Kennedy, of First Presbyterian Church; Major, the Rev. H. K. Grensner, of the 12th military district.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE

The Kitchener, Ont., Hall was the scene of an interesting wedding conducted by the Corps Officer, Major A. Crowe. The principals were Sister Jane Gallagher and Aircraftman Robert Bruce of the R.A.F. At a reception in the Young People's Hall, Sister Mrs. Nelson and Brother Perry offered congratulations on behalf of the Corps.

The Young People's Singing Company, resplendent in new uniform, made its first public appearance at a program in which it was assisted by the Young People's Band, and for which 400 tickets were sold. Brothers Scott and Price, the leaders, as well as the young folk themselves, received well-merited commendation.

Brother Tom Pollock and his family have been welcomed to the Corps.

BACKSLIDER RETURNS

At New Waterford, N.S., the Divisional Commander and Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Ursaki were guests at a supper prepared by the Red Shield Auxiliary and Home League. Mrs. Ursaki told of the work of these groups across Canada, and Home League Secretary Mrs. Boucher assured her of the League's full co-operation.

At night, after an address by Lieut.-Colonel Ursaki, six persons came to Christ, one of them a backslider for twenty-six years. Major and Mrs. E. Harris are the leaders of this thriving Corps.

SOCIAL OFFICERS LEAD

Comrades and Officers of East Toronto (Adjutant and Mrs. MacLennan) enjoyed the visit of a number of Women's Social Officers. Major Mrs. Ellis, of London, Ont., was in charge of the day's meetings. She was assisted by Majors King and Haynes, of Toronto, and Major Barr of Windsor.

Captain Webb, of Toronto, gave the Holiness address. Major James, of Ottawa, and Major Osell, of Toronto, took part in the evening meeting in which Major Ellis gave the main address. Five listeners reached a decision for Christ on the latter occasion. Major Henderson, of Saint John, presided at the piano during the day.

Brigadier and Mrs. G. Wilson were in charge of the meetings on the preceding Sunday.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Major John Moll was the speaker at a series of meetings arranged at Kamsack, Sask., by the Corps Officer, Captain W. Paulin. The capacity of the Hall was taxed to the limit on several occasions, especially those on which lantern slides of the life of Christ were shown. Two persons rededicated themselves to the service of Christ.

MANY VISITORS

In meetings led by Adjutant I. Halsey, of Medicine Hat, at the Hillhurst, Calgary, Corps (Captain and Mrs. Mattinson) two young people were enrolled as Senior Soldiers and a tea for Soldiers, Recruits and Converts was held. Guests of honor at the tea were Major and Mrs. Elch, of Calgary Citadel, who were stationed at Hillhurst thirteen years before. Major I. Tindale, of Sunnyside Lodge, stationed here twenty-two years ago; Major R. Campbell of Girce Hospital, a former Corps Cadet; Sister Mrs. Lockwood of the Citadel, who, as Captain Nevall, opened the Corps in 1912.

Following the supper Captain Mattinson presided over a program which featured Adjutant Halsey, accompanied by Mrs. Mattinson, as concert soloist. On this occasion commissions were renewed and new ones were presented, after which Major Pitch spoke.

Other recent visitors have been Major and Mrs. Carswell and Mrs. Major Belkovich, and Corporal and Mrs. S. Marsh of the R.C.A.F.

ADVANCES RECORDED

Pictou, Ont., comrades and Officers (Captain and Mrs. D. E. Strachan) are rejoicing over recent victories. During meetings conducted by Brigadier and Mrs. Foster, two Senior and five Junior Soldiers were enrolled. On the following Tuesday the Divisional Young People's Secretary and Mrs. Major Merrett led a meeting in which a new Singing Company was commissioned and a new Brownie Troop was enrolled.

Further visitors were Brigadier and Mrs. Waterston, during whose meetings four Junior Soldiers were enrolled.

Five new Corps Cadets have been added to the Brigade and the Company meeting attendance has been steadily increasing.

"REMEMBRANCE" MEETING

Mrs. Brigadier Carruthers, wife of the Divisional Commander, dedicated the "Book of Remembrance" of the Regina Citadel Home League. At this time the granddaughter of Sister Mrs. Jones was dedicated. The meeting was largely attended.

On another occasion eighty women enjoyed a dinner and program, the latter including pictures of The Army's Red Shield work.

The League is making great strides under the direction of Secretary Mrs. J. Henderson.

SCORE SEEK CHRIST

In a ten-day campaign conducted by Envoys T. Mundy at the Saint John, N.B., North End Corps (Adjutant B. Earle), more than a score of persons publicly accepted Christ.

Brother George Oliver also was a speaker on a recent Sunday evening.

Lieutenant Grace Chow, of Montreal, was a speaker in a Sunday night meeting at the Saint John, N.B., West Side Corps where Lieutenant D. Wambolt and Pro-Lieutenant K. Hogg are stationed. One person surrendered at the Altar.

PASSION FOR SOULS

A "passion for souls" has fallen upon the Soldiers of the New Aberdeen, N.S., Corps where Major and Mrs. Oakley are stationed. The result is that sinners are being converted and wanderers are renewing their friendship with Him who said, "I am married to the backslider." One of the converts was a woman who had spent more than sixty years outside of the Fold and Family of Christ. Her testimony is convincing, convicting and inspiring.

Recent speakers have been Captain and Mrs. Wren of the War Services, and, on a later date, the Divisional Commander and Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Ursaki. In connection with the latter event Mrs. Ursaki met the Home League and Red Shield Auxiliary members in the afternoon.

A Youth Fellowship League and Brownie Pack have been organized.

MANY WON FOR CHRIST

At Sydney Mines, N.S., where Lieutenants Crowell and Chubb are stationed, backsliders of long standing have returned to the Fold and new converts have been won.

The Hall also has been redecorated and made attractive.

Interesting events have included a meeting conducted by Lieutenant Simpson and two members of the armed forces, and a welcome to the Divisional leaders, Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. Ursaki. Four persons knelt at the Altar in the night meeting led by the Divisional Commander; in the afternoon Mrs. Ursaki met the Home League members.

NEW FLAG DEDICATED

The Territorial Young People's Secretary, Brigadier A. Keith, visited the Saskatoon Westside Corps (Major and Mrs. John Moll) and, in an impressive service, "retired" the Corps Flag after twenty-five years of service, and dedicated a new Flag.

In the same meeting he enrolled one Senior and three Junior Soldiers, and dedicated the Infant son of Brother and Sister G. Rolfe.

NINE-DAY CAMPAIGN

Young People's Sergeant-Major Oscar Clapp and a group of Young People's Workers were responsible for the meetings in a nine-day campaign held at Stratford Corps where Adjutant and Mrs. D. Sharp are stationed.

Visiting Officers were Lieutenants Durdle and McArthur, of Goderich, Captain Harney and Lieutenant Wastell, of St. Marys, and Adjutant and Mrs. Broom, of London.

Major C. Robinson, of the War Services, was the speaker in week-end meetings in which the Cornwall, Ont., Corps (Major and Mrs. Mills) observed the fifty-sixth anniversary of its opening. Present in the Saturday night meeting were many persons who remembered the coming of The Army to the town.

In the Sunday night meeting Sister Mrs. E. Weeks, Cornwall's oldest Soldier, converted in March, 1888, spoke of the early days, and messages from leaders at Territorial Headquarters were read. Music for the day was provided by Brother Williams and other local comrades.

Major Huband, of Montreal, led the meetings on a recent week-end, and visited the House of Refuge.

MISSIONARIES WELCOMED

At St. Catharines, Ont. (Major and Mrs. A. Green), Envoys Evenden, of Hamilton, was a speaker on a recent week-end. In the morning the Corps got word that Major and Mrs. Ecott and daughter, on furlough from China, would be present at night. The comrades got busy on the telephone, and the result was a good crowd ready to greet them. One brother publicly sought a deeper work of grace.

Major and Mrs. Ecott also were present to help celebrate the Corps' sixtieth anniversary at which Major J. Galloway (R) was the special speaker. The Sunday night meeting wound up with what Major Ecott called a "slingspiration."

On Monday night, after a supper provided by the Home League, the Band and Songsters and other musicians gave a program before a crowd which filled the auditorium. The Divisional Commander, Lieut.-Colonel Ritchie, presided, and Major Emily Ecott and Mrs. Captain Poulton, sisters of Major Ecott, assisted with the music.

OPEN-AIR SUCCESSSES

Captain and Mrs. Waller, of Prince Albert, Sask., report that the Red Shield Auxiliary is very active, a new Young People's Singing Company is giving valuable service, and several persons have found Salvation as a result of open-air meetings held on the main street three times a week. In addition, several men and women in the jail have expressed a desire to live as Christians in the future.

Brigadier A. Keith, Territorial Young People's Secretary, and Brigadier and Mrs. Carruthers, Divisional leaders, were visitors on a recent occasion. Mrs. Carruthers addressed the Home League members in the afternoon. Brigadier Keith held a special children's meeting, and all the visitors were guests at a supper for Corps Cadets and Young People's Workers, and later took part in a well-attended public meeting.

PRAYER SUBJECT

The Red Shield Women's Auxiliary

Particulars regarding the Sword and Shield Brigade may be obtained from your Divisional Commander, or direct from Territorial Headquarters, 20 Albert Street, Toronto.

Brownies received badges. Present, also, was Brother Ruston, Officer in charge of the Corps thirty years before.

The final anniversary event was a meeting for Soldiers, Recruits and Converts, led by the Divisional Young People's Secretary and Mrs. Major Merrett. Messages from the Territorial Commander and Chief Secretary were read during the week-end.

WE MISS YOU!

The Salvation Army will search for missing persons in any part of the globe, befriend and, so far as is possible, assist anyone in difficulty. One dollar should, where possible, be sent with enquiry to help defray expenses.

Address your communications to the Men's Social Secretary, 20 Albert Street, Toronto 1, in the case of men, marking "Enquiry" on the envelope. In the case of women, please notify the Women's Social Secretary, 20 Albert Street, Toronto.

Songs That Cheer

And Bless

"I will sing of Thy power;
yea, I will sing aloud of Thy mercy."—Psa. 59:16.

WONDERFUL LIGHT

Tune: "Beautiful Star"

LORD, for Thy searching here we call,
At Thy cross together fall,
Nothing from Thee we mean to hide,
Open every heart's door wide.
Open every heart's door wide.

Wonderful light! Wonderful light!
Jesus is sending His wonderful, wonderful light.

Under His light so pure and strong,
Stains are seen and motives wrong,
Faults in ourselves we soon condone,
Now as God sees them all are shown,

Now as God sees them all are shown.

Wonderful love! It melts my heart,
Helps me now with all to part;
What can I keep, dear Lord, from
Thee
When Thou didst give Thy life for
me,
When Thou didst give Thy life for
me?

HERE IS OUR DELIVERER!

Tune: "Rachie"

LOUDLY sounds the challenge—
Who has faith to-day?
Who, through shades of conflict,
Sees the crowning day?
Faint not, nor be weary!
Right will vanquish wrong;

God is our Salvation,
God our strength and song.

Come, oh, come ye people;
Draw ye near and see,
Here is our Deliverer—
Christ of Calvary.

Each Sunday, beginning at 9.30 a.m.,
"Salvation Melodies."

"Art Thou Weary?"

No. 38 in The Salvation Army
Song Book

Art thou weary, are thou languid?
Art thou sore distressed?
"Come to Me," saith One, "and coming,
Be at rest!"

IN the first edition of his "Hymns of the Eastern Church," which appeared in 1867, Dr. Neale gives this hymn as by "S. Stephen the Sabaite, A.D. 725-794," but in the third edition he confesses that "it contains so little from the Greek that it ought not to have been included in this collection."

Rev. John Mason Neale, D.D., the true author, was born in London on January 24, 1818, his father being a "very pronounced Evangelical" minister of the Anglican Church, who died when his son was five years of age.

He was educated at Sherbourne Grammar School, from whence he proceeded via two private tutors to Cambridge University, where his scholastic abilities earned for him considerable distinction. In 1842 he married Sarah Norman Webster, the

TRUE LIGHT OF LIFE

Tune: "Eilers"

FATHER of lights, again these new-born rays
That flush the kindling east bespeak
our praise:

Shine on our hearts, true light of Life,
that we
May mirror back Thy beams, and shine for Thee.

God of the day! teach us to walk in light
With guileless hearts as in our
Father's sight;
To hate the works of darkness, and to be True to ourselves, our fellow-men, and Thee.

God of our time! Thy latest gift—this day—
We render back to Thee, and humbly lay
Upon Thine altar; consecrate its hours,
That we may work Thy will with all our powers.

God of our home! we own Thee Master
here,
May all be ordered in Thy faith and fear;
Unseen but felt, oh! may Thy presence prove
The bond of peace, the pledge of joy and love.

Where the wand'rer falters
On his hopeless road;
Where the heavy-laden
Faints beneath the load;
Men cry—"Who will aid us?
Who retrieve our loss?"
Tell them, tell them boldly—
Jesus and His Cross.

Glory be to Jesus
For a people freed!
Hail the great deliv'rance,
Exodus indeed!
We are won from bondage
By His sovereign right.
Joy, oh, Joy, with singing,
As we face the light.

The three songs whose words are included in this week's section, are reprinted from the special "Light at Midnight" Campaign Song Book used recently with good effect in the British Territory.

FAMILIAR FACES.—With Lieut.-Colonel A. E. Dalziel (centre) are seen a number of Red Shield Auxiliary Officers now serving Canadian troops in England. Included in the group are women Officers doing Auxiliary work. The occasion was a special week-end's meetings at the Rugby Corps daughter of an Evangelical clergyman, and in 1943 was presented to the small incumbency of Crawley, in Sussex. Ill-health, however, prevented him from being instituted to the living.

Following a few months in Ma-deria, he became Warden of Sackville College, East Grinstead, where he spent the remainder of his comparatively short life.

On August 6, 1866, after five months of acute suffering, he passed away, having "spent nearly half his life where he died, in the position of Warden of an obscure almshouse on a salary of £27 a year," but possessing the love and gratitude of those with whom he was immediately connected, and a world-wide reputation as a writer of religious works, and a sacred poet.
